

COLLECTORS IN NEW ENGLAND MUST QUIT

All but Those in Boston and Portland Must Yield Places
Next Week.

A dispatch from Washington says that a week from today all collectors of customs in Maine, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts, except those in Portland and in Boston, must yield their places. The work they are now performing will be either transferred to those two cities or be performed by deputies. House Democrats are to caucus Wednesday, and an effort may be made to bring up the senate bill to defer reorganization till Jan. 1, next. There is little likelihood that the caucus will act favorably. This view prevails at the treasury department where Asst. Secretary Curtis has made all the preparations for the changes.

Willis T. Emmons, the collector at Portland, who has been in Washington for several days was requested by the department to state whether he continued in office, he would relinquish all claims to fees. This action was taken because of a possible doubt about the legality of the reorganization, in which event the treasury department wishes to waive the government from claims for extra compensations.

In the case of Collector Emmons it, apparently signified the willingness of the administration to allow him to serve for some time yet rather than to nominate ex-Senator Osadigh Gardner to the office.

TOOK LIVES OF NEWLYWEDS

Two Slain and Three are Dying as Result of Rejected Suitors Outbreak at Wedding

Philadelphia, June 23.—A rejected suitor tonight shot and killed a young bride and a man who attempted to save her, while three others, one woman and two men, were probably fatally injured at the wedding celebration in the northern part of the city, at which the double tragedy occurred.

Mrs. Nicholas Rozelle, 18 years old, and Vincent Spiritti, of Landsdowne, Pa., were killed; Solice Spiritti of Morton, Del., was stabbed near the heart, an unidentified woman 25 years old, shot through the breast, and Angelo Goecino, who is accused of doing the shooting, was slashed about the throat. None of the wounded are expected to recover.

Mrs. Rozelle was married five months ago on her arrival from Italy. Her husband and she were childhood sweethearts, but during his absence in this country she had been courted by Angelo Goecino, whose attentions she is said to have spurned.

Goecino, it is alleged, followed her to America, but did not cause her any annoyance until tonight when he appeared at the celebration at which more than a score of guests were present. As he entered the room where the merrymaking was in progress, it is alleged Goecino opened fire at the young bride who fell with a bullet wound in her head.

Spiritti springing to her assistance and received a bullet in his heart. Goecino it is declared then shot the woman a second time, the bullet penetrating her abdomen. When he had exhausted the supply of bullets in his revolver the crowd surged upon him and someone slashed him through the neck with a knife.

Eleven persons found on the premises when the police arrived were arrested and held at witnesses.

Barthley Molloy of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Molloy, and Miss May Ashmond of West Medford, Mass., were married in that town on Sunday last. The bride was attended by her sister, Agnes Ashmond, and wore a crepe de chene. The bridegroom's dress was of pink satin. The best man was Barthley J. Molloy, cousin of the groom. A reception followed at the home of the bride, which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns.

The wedding gifts were numerous and comprised cut glass, silver, furniture and embroidery. The couple will enjoy their honeymoon in New York and will reside in Beverly, where the groom is employed by the United Shoe Machinery Co. Several out of town guests witnessed the ceremony, among which were Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Molloy of this city.

YOUTH SHOOTS UP COURT ROOM AT WASHINGTON

One Bullet Narrowly Misses
Head of Assistant United States Attorney Hawken.

Washington, June 23.—Ray M. Stewart, aged 18, tried to shoot up the criminal court here today when Justice Stafford refused to release him on probation after conviction for attempted highway robbery. Before officers could overpower him Stewart whipped out a pistol and put three bullets perilously near Justice Stafford and Assistant United States Attorneys Given and Hawken. He was jailed to answer a more serious charge.

Justice Stafford had just refused a petition to place Stewart on probation when the prisoner pulled the revolver. Facing toward Hawken and Given he began shooting rapidly. One of the bullets narrowly missed Hawken's head and was buried in a window sill behind. Stewart was turning toward Justice Stafford as though to shoot when several policemen leaped on him.

The court room was thrown into an uproar and many dived for cover. The attack came so suddenly that few realized what was happening until the man had been overpowered.

ST. JOHN'S DAY OBSERVANCE

DeWitt Clinton Commandery Entertains Keene Commandery-- Haverhill Commandery
at the Wentworth

Today is St. John's Day and all over the country the day is being celebrated in a fitting manner by the Knights Templar. In this city the celebration commenced on Monday afternoon when the members of DeWitt Clinton Commandery met and received the members of Dunlap Commandery of Ball. In the evening the officers and quite a large delegation of Sir Knights visited the Wentworth, where they were the guests of the Haverhill and Bath Commanderies.

Today's Observance.

At 9 o'clock this Tuesday morning, the members assembled at Masonic hall for a half hour later, headed by Larve's Lynn Cadet Band, marched to the Boston & Maine railroad station to receive the members of Hugh de Payens Commandery of Keene, Vermont and nearly one hundred Sir Knights were in line and they presented a handsome appearance on the line of march to and from the railroad station.

The members of Hugh de Payens Commandery, accompanied by the Keene City Band, arrived by special train shortly before 10 o'clock, and the two commanderies immediately proceeded to Masonic hall where an appetizing lunch was awaiting the visitors, who had been obliged to leave their home city at an early hour this morning.

At 11 o'clock the two commanderies left the hall and made a parade through the following streets: Congress, Pleasant, State, Middle, Irvington, Cabot, Middle to Miller avenue. Here special electric cars were provided for the parade at Rye Beach, where the day will be passed.

On the arrival at Rye Beach two base ball teams selected from the two commanderies began to contest for honors, and the time up to 3 o'clock was occupied with sports.

At 3 o'clock the banquet was served and was in keeping with the usual excellent service furnished by Manager Carter of this noted hostelry.

The return to this city will be made in season to allow the visitors to leave for home at 7 o'clock.

A fine program of entertainment has been arranged by the members of DeWitt Clinton commandery and it goes without saying that the visiting Sir Knights will return home well pleased with their visitation to New Hampshire's only sea port and historic city.

Railroad Men Say Bridge
Was Never Better.

A communication over the signature of a man who gives Boston as his place of residence, relative to the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge is minus the real facts. While the bridge is no modern structure, it is in better condition today than for the past five years. For more than two years the engineering department of the Boston & Maine has given much attention to the structure and the carpenters under foreman Frank Wherlin, who look after it have labored there at every opportunity. More pilings have been driven than was ever known before and new ties have replaced the old ones as fast as possible for the men to build them and put them in. The story that the piling does not touch bottom is not so and an examination will prove this beyond a doubt. It has cost the railroad a small sum at all times to care for this bridge but of late years this expense has greatly increased from the fact that everything that could be done to strengthen the structure has been done. To facilitate the work a modern steam pile driver has been purchased and three times the work has been accomplished in two years. The railroad has in its employ some of the best engineers of the country and they will tell you that

P. A. C. WIN CLOSE GAME FROM Y. M. C. A.

Boys Made a Fine Last Inning Rally But Lose Out--Both Teams Played Fast Ball.

Charles H. Brackett senior, batting in the place of his son Charles, started a rally in the Y. M. C. A. vs P. A. C. game last evening which came near finding a tie game or a victory for the Young Men, and it was another son of Bill Brackett in the uniform of the P. A. C. whose strong right arm checked the rally by a great throw in time to rob Mose Howard of a home run. It was a game in which the Bracketts figured quite prominently, and the senior showed the younger crowd that he still had his batting eye. If not quite as active on his feet as in former years.

It was a good game and other than from a few slips and it was well played and at all times interesting. The P. A. C. started as though they were going to break up the game in the opening inning when after two men had been retired McPheters hit in Charlie Brackett who threw in time to get him at first but it was a little wide of the bag and Palmer dropped the ball. A wild pitch, a base on balls and a three base walk by Weare inside of the ten minute hour and Tom Lynskey leading out a hit in first scored three runs. It looked big but the Young Men were hitting the ball and they picked up a run in the second and third innings and dropped more by indifferent base running and then came the rally in the fifth. The P. A. C. had added two runs to their score in the fifth on two singles and a wild pitch and a very poor play by H. Brackett so that they had a lead of three and looked good. The head of the batting line was up and H. Brackett hit a long one to Tom Lynskey, Charles senior took Charles junior's place and hit for a single over third and Ralph did the running for him. A wild pitch placed him on second and Palmer was passed. Mose Howard without any preliminary worked the ball into right center was out under the automobile and everybody started for home. Bill Woods started after the ball and Bill Brackett after Woods and Howard was rounding third when the ball was relayed to Bill Brackett and with a wonderful peg he nailed Howard at the plate. Remick was passed and Timmons who had made two hits and up a high one over short that Bill Brackett ran well back and got.

There was a change in the umpires Sheridan taking the bases and Barker at the bat and it appeared to work very satisfactorily.

She pitched for the Y. M. C. A. and he, while hit hard in spots, kept them well scattered after the first and was effective. He got good support, Remick making a great catch in right and young Marden playing a fine game at short and Palmer was good at first. Howard played a fast game other than one slip up and he hit the ball as did Timmons.

McPheters was not some effective against the Young Men as with the Ellis, for he was reached for eight hits the most of them long drives. He got good support from the infield Bill Brackett playing a snappy game at short and Hobbs caught a fine game throwing to bases in great shape. Newick also played a good game.

The Game in Detail.

FIRST INNING

The P. A. C. were up and O'Woods was thrown out by Weare. Brackett hit a sharp line to right that Remick added. McPheters hit to C. Brackett who threw a little wide of the bag and Palmer the ball and Mose collided and the latter was safe.

He stole second and a wild pitch placed him on third. Newick was passed and stole second, and both scored on Weare's long drive to right which went through both the tennis court and Remick relayed the ball in fast enough to keep Weare at third, but he scored when Lynskey hit to Palmer and beat him to the bag. Lynskey was thrown out trying for the second base.

Ralph Brackett singled but a few seconds was caught off first, the bag being misstrapped and he slid over. C. Brackett was thrown out by Locke. Palmer was thrown out by Weare.

Score, P. A. C. 2, Y. M. C. A. 0.

SECOND INNING

Hobbs opened with a three base hit to left center, Locke hit to Marden who threw him out at first. W. Woods hit to Marden and Hobbs started to score but Marden caught him at the plate. G. Woods singled but Brackett filed to Remick.

M. Howard was safe when Bill Brackett threw wild to first and he took second on the overthrow. Remick was thrown out by McPheters. Timmons singled scoring Howard. Marden singled advancing Timmons, but he was nailed a second time trying to steal third. Sheehy struck out.

Score, P. A. C. 2, Y. M. C. A. 1.

THIRD INNING

McPheters was thrown out by Howard. Newick hit by C. Brackett. Weare singled but Lynskey struck out.

Leary, Timmons, R. Brackett was safe on Locke's fumble. C. Brackett was thrown out by Bill Brackett. Palmer singled scoring Ralph. Howard doubled and Remick fanned.

Score, P. A. C. 3, Y. M. C. A. 2.

St. Louis Cardinals Have the "Head Waiters" of the National League

St. Louis, June 24.—James Tilden Sheekard and Miller Huggins, these two exponents of the art of waiting and walking are now with the same club, the St. Louis Cardinals. There are any number of waiters who wish the men were separated. Last season while with the Chicago Cubs Sheekard drew 122 walks. Huggins worked the pitchers for 87. They are the head waiters of the National League. This year Sheekard and Huggins are drawing bases on balls by the baker's dozen as of old. Both have been announced to pitchers for years, but this is the first season that pitchers are called upon to face them both in one afternoon.

FOURTH INNING

The P. A. C. were out in order. Hobbs was thrown out by Sheehy. Locke filed to Howard. W. Woods was safe on Howard's fumble, but he was thrown out trying for second, Marden taking the throw.

Timmons singled and went to second on a balk. Marden fanned. Sheehy hit to McPheters who threw Timmons out at third. W. Howard who had relieved Leary in left fanned.

FIFTH INNING

G. Woods hit to Palmer who made a fine stop and beat Woods to the bag. Brackett singled and wild pitch placed him on second, and he scored on McPheters' single, who went to second on the throw in. Newick bounced one off the plate and Ralph Brackett moved out and threw him out at first, but Ralph apparently thought that it was all over and he left the plate unguarded and McPheters came all the way from second on the play. Weare filed to Palmer.

The last inning rally has been told above. The score:

NO REASON FOR IT

When Portsmouth Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Portsmouth citizen says:

"Clinton R. Bird, 123 Hill street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: Three years ago I had an attack of kidney complaint and suffered terribly from back-ache. It was almost impossible for me to do any work when the trouble was at its height and I always felt tired. The contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Philbrick's Drug Store, relieved me and soon corrected all the difficulties arising from disordered kidneys. During the time that has since elapsed, I have been pleased to tell of the great benefit I derived from them. I cannot praise Doan's Kidney Pills too highly. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. ROMANCE AND REALITY

Romance and reality generally keep a respectable distance apart when it comes to millions and marriage. Penneyson has his poem of the bird who wooed the girl as a poor man and surprised her when he took her home to share his noble name and mighty domain. But this was the man with the money seeking the woman who had none and keeping his wealth a secret.

Even there was your old friend, Claude Melanthe, who courted and won the celebrated Lady of Lynons, pretending that he was a regular Croesus instead of a Gardner's son. He tried to keep romances and reality apart but eventually the axe dropped on the scheme.

The New York case of Miss Thyrza Benson and Montague Plagg, the other day however, reverses the usual plot of the novelist. Mr. Plagg met Miss Benson at an innocent tea party. They were mutually attracted immediately.

So Plagg paid no court. He wrote the young lady and she wrote him, he all the while never suspecting that she was an heiress to a seven figure fortune. Every once in a while something would happen that would all but reveal the secret, but Miss Benson would give the hash sign and the subject would be turned. At last Plagg proposed, was accepted, and the couple were married; on the wedding day the bridegroom learned officially that his wife was the granddaughter of Robert Ross, and destined to inherit riches that would take a good while to count.

A wealthy Milwaukee widow a few years ago advertised in a matrimonial paper that she would make good wife for the right kind of a man. She picked out the best photographed man that answered, and though she'd tried out this novel plan to smoke out the possible fortune hunter. When they met she said:

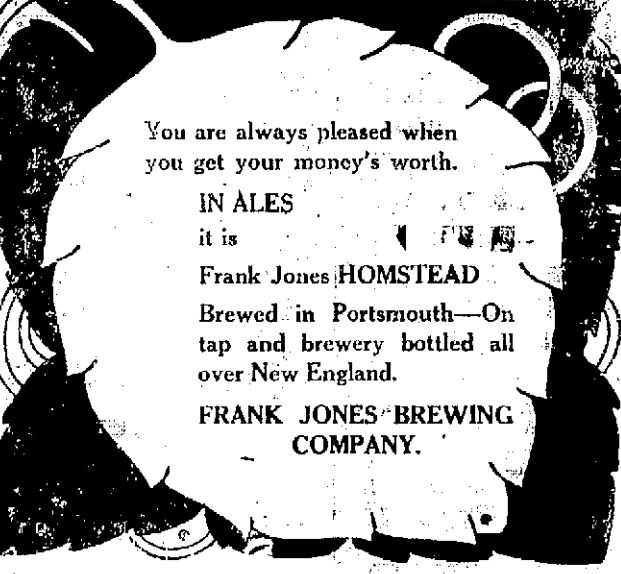

"I have money and at the same time I haven't. It's all depend. Don't ask me any more questions. We'll try it for six months."

They were married. The bridegroom proved the most silent kind of a man. The former widow could hardly get a word out of him. But he was a determined, steady worker, sober chap and she fell in love with him. At the end of six months she said to him: "It's all right. You're my man. I've plenty of money."

But the six month husband spoke more volubly than she had ever known him to before. Said he:

"Nothing doing—nothing doing." Was just going to tell you nothing doing. I've got money myself. I thought I'd try you out the same way. The speller don't suit. Me for Nevada. Nothing doing."—New York Sun.

OUTING AT THE WENTWORTH

Paramount among the matters in the minds of the local pharmacists, both proprietors and registered clerks, at the present time is the fortieth annual convention of the New Hampshire State Pharmaceutical association, which will be held at the Hotel Wentworth at Newmarket-by-the-Sea next Thursday and Friday.

The executive committee has made arrangements to have automobiles three miles from the scene of the convention, and the management will cooperate with the committee in doing everything in its power for the comfort and entertainment of the guests who will come from all parts of the state. Even the smallest towns in the Granite state will be represented and it is expected that all of the proprietors and registered clerks in the 25 or more drug stores in this city will be present.

The association executive headquarters are located here, and most of the officers are Manchester druggists. The invitations which have been issued by Secretary Charles G. Dunnington call upon all members of the profession to be present and augment the sociability and enjoyment of the occasion by bringing along the ladies. Everything possible will be done to make the occasion a pleasant one socially and a profitable one through the interchange of ideas that will be brought about for the benefit of the adherents of the Manchester association, which is ranked as one of the strongest in the country.

On the last day of the convention there will be a banquet, together with a cabaret entertainment, and the mayor of Portsmouth and Governor Peck will be present as honorary guests, if possible. The detailed program for both days follows:

Thursday June 26—Meet at Hotel Wentworth as early as possible. 2:30 p. m. business meeting, address by President Prescott, report of officers and committees, admission of new members, 4:30 p. m. business meeting, election of officers, 7:30 p. m. auto ride for ladies, visiting colonial Portsmouth with guide, Thursday evening, dancing and whist. The Traveling Men's auxiliary have charge of the above and have offered prizes.

Friday, June 27—The committee has arranged to leave Portsmouth about 11 a. m. for Isles of Shoals. There will be a dinner at the Shoals and also a meeting on boat, returning to hotel about 5 p. m. The banquet will be at 8 p. m. and promises to be the main feature of our trip. The mayor of Portsmouth will be present and the governor, if possible. During the banquet there will be a cabaret entertainment.

The officers of the association comprise the following well-known members of the pharmaceutical profession: President, A. J. Prescott, Manchester; secretary, Charles G. Dunnington, Manchester; treasurer, S. Howard Bell, Derry; auditor, John H. Marshall of Manchester. The personnel of the executive committee embraces Paul H. Boire and Charles G. Dunnington of Manchester and H. E. Rice of Nashua.

REAL SUMMERTIME WEATHER IS PROMISED

Bureau Observers Say No Storm Will
Cross Country for Week

Washington, June 22—Real summertime weather with generally fair skies during the coming week was promised to the entire country tonight by the weather bureau. Normal temperatures were predicted for the New England states.

A reaction from the prevailing moderate temperature to seasonably warm weather will set in over New England states by Wednesday, the Weekly Bulletin said. The precipitation during the week will be generally light and local, and confined principally to the northern states and the Rocky Mountain region.

No important storm is charted to cross the country the coming week.

OUTFIT ATTRACTS ATTENTION

The Richest Man in the Senate Does Not Put On Style

Washington, June 23—An emaciated, spindly, disreputable looking horse drawing a ramshackle, out of date, rickety and much abused sea going back stopped at the door of the White house the other day. A round shouldered aged negro cabby, his plug hat dented and rusty, and his once black raiment now green with age, looked anxiously through the glass doors at the entrance to the executive offices and waited. A old man emerged. Though neatly dressed he didn't look like the usual White house caller. He chewed tobacco, and wore scraggly whiskers. He shuffled to the carriage, the ramshackle vehicle. The negro waved his whip with a show of pride and the emaciated horse shuffled down the gravel drive into Pennsylvania avenue.

"Who was that?" inquired a visitor of one of the policemen. "Uncle Ike Stephenson of Wisconsin, the richest man in the United States senate," answered the policeman.

FOR GENERAL DEFENSE

Extraordinary Wave of Patriotism
Sweeping Over Denmark

Copenhagen, June 23—An extraordinary wave of patriotism is sweeping over Denmark. Following the example of the Swedes who last year raised $5,000,000 by popular subscription for the purpose of assisting the government in building a dreadnaught, the Danes are contributing to a fund for general defense. In the past six weeks according to announcement made today, the subscriptions have totaled $100,000.

Local committees have been established in every town and village in the country and also among the Danes living in the United States, England, and other countries, and contributions are pouring in daily from persons of all classes at the general headquarters here. The professors and students of Copenhagen university subscribed a large amount and collections have been made in many of the public schools. Big sums have come in from wealthy land owners, and commercial firms are vying with one another in the patriotic competition. Nearly every artist in Denmark has contributed a picture or piece of sculpture to an art lottery, the proceeds of which will go to the fund, and numerous falls and other public entertainments are being held.

The immediate occasion for this outburst was the revelation of the Danish General Staff that there was a serious gap in the chain of fortifications around Copenhagen. Forthwith a handful of the weather residents of the capital contributed $137,500 to apply the needed fort. This led to the discovery of other shortcomings in war material of all sorts, aeroplanes, hydro aeroplanes, dirigible balloons, submarines, etc., and after a conference with the military authorities a general committee of citizens decided to issue an appeal to the nation with a result far exceeding any other popular manifestation in Denmark's history.

BLIGHT KILLED CHESTNUT CAN BE USED.

Washington, June 22—The throngs of the chestnut bark disease or chestnut blight on the chestnut trees of New England and the middle Atlantic states is resulting in the death of a great deal of chestnut timber. Officials of the Department of Agriculture, recommend to prevent the spread of the disease, that shipments of chestnut timber, should include only material from which the bark has been removed and from which the diseased spots have been cut out.

In the region affected there is a good market for all chestnut products except cordwood. The demand for poles and ties absorbs all that are offered, and lumber finds ready sales in local markets. Cordwood, however, is often a drug except within shipping distance of tanning extract plants, brass foundries, lime kilns brick yards and charcoal plants.

The question has arisen as to whether the disease-killed timber is less valuable than that from green trees.

WHERE IS YOUR FAVORITE LOCATION
FOR THE NEW ARMORY BUILDING?

Since the appropriation for the new armory has been allowed by the legislature, there appears to be much discussion as to where the home of the militia will be located. To get the idea of the most favorable site, the HERALD invites the people to vote on the matter and will print each day the following coupon, which can be filled out and sent to the City Editor. In due time the result will be published.

Fill out the following blank and send to The Herald.

Strength tests made by the Forest Service indicate that sound wood from chestnut killed by the bark disease is as strong as that from green timber.

The bark disease kills the tree by girdling the trunk, and does not cause unsound or decayed wood, which is the result of attack by fungi or insects. Until two years after the death of the tree the wood generally remains sound, though at the end of that time insects have commenced working in the sapwood. Three years after death the sapwood is honey-combed with insect burrows; in four years it has decayed, and begins to dry and peel off in the fifth year. After this the heartwood checks badly. To avoid loss, therefore, all timber should be used within two years after being killed.

At a recent meeting in Trenton, N. J., foresters were present from most of the states in which the chestnut bark is prevalent. Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, and the Forest Service and the Bureau of Plant Industry were represented. Representatives of the states approved the investigations undertaken by the Forest Service, and recommended that the individual states give particular attention to the development of local markets for stands of blight killed chestnut. Owners of such timber should apply to the state foresters or to the Forest Service for further information upon the uses and markets for chestnut.

B. & M. ENGINEERS GIVEN

Must Not Run Trains At Speed Exceeding Fifty Miles an Hour

For the purpose of guarding against a repetition of the serious accident at Granvilleville, when the Bar Harbor New York train became derailed, a few days ago notices have been posted by the officials of the Boston & Maine railroad, warning all engineers not to run their trains at a speed exceeding 50 miles an hour.

This applies especially to the 3200 and 3600 class of engines, which are of the large mogul type and very likely to run at an excessive speed, engineers are especially warned that a violation of the rule will not be tolerated. Advertise in the Chronicle. Advertise in the Chronicle.

WANTED TO GET BACK TO PRISON

New York, June 23.—William Furber and Maurice Clifford, the two escaped Sing Sing convicts who had all the police in this end of the state on the jump, were captured early today at South Highland avenue and Broad street, Ossining, within a mile and a half of the prison.

They were badly injured from contact with barbed wire fences and briars, so bruised from falls and collisions with obstructions in their wild flight in the dark that they had to be put in the hospital. And both expressed immeasurable joy at getting back without loss of life and limb.

Though described as desperate burglars, one of the men had been cook at Warden Kennedy's home and the other was the laundry man there. The warden's house is partly inside and partly outside the prison walls. The men were "trusties" and seldom were taken back inside the walls before 8 p. m.

Whether they decided to leave after learning of the summary dismissal of Warden Kennedy by wire Saturday, fearing that their privileged position would be curtailed under a different management, or were simply disgusted with Sing Sing after reading the official reports on the evils to be encountered there, they do not state.

When policemen Murphy, Penney and Weiskit of the Ossining Constabulary saw the two men crawling along the old Albany post road at 2 this morning, still in prison garb, they headed them off.

"Take us back," both men yelled, throwing up their hands. "We are only lost or strayed."

They were covered with mud and blood and most of the different varieties of beliers and burrs in the woods. Insects had bitten them, and spots on their bodies were so sore they could not be touched without evoking cries of pain.

They admitted they had hoped

HENRY FEYSER & SON

WOULD WRECK A TRAIN IN TUNNEL

London June 23—What is suspected to have been a militant suffragette attempt to wreck an express train from London to Plymouth in a tunnel near Devonport on Saturday, is reported today.

A motor belonging to the London & Southwestern Railway, while proceeding through the tunnel along the rails came in contact with a heavy obstacle.

The motorman made a search and discovered two heavy sleepers wedged between the metals over which the express train was due to pass. The sleepers were removed just as the long train thundered through the tunnel.

Circus "Thrillers" Are Passing.

The absence of "thrillers," says an exchange, in which men and women defy the laws of nature and laugh in the face of death, so common with circuses of the past decade, was a noticeable feature of the teated shows that appeared in Manchester yesterday. It brought out emphatically the fact that the public taste is turning from morbid desire to see fellow humans take chances that might result in death, and is tending toward the spectacular in other and less dangerous forms.

The circus of the old days was not complete without some such daring performer. The present generation of circus goers can remember very well "Diavolo," who looped the loop on a bicycle, and the woman who later did the same thing in an automobile. Then there were the dare-devil performers who "leaped the gap," turning somersaults in midair and hurling themselves through space over the backs of a flock of elephants after a wild ride on a wheel down a steep incline.

It was common for every circus to carry as a special feature a diver, who leaped from a lofty ladder into a tank of water as a headline attraction for the "free" outside show before the main performance began. All this has passed. Now we have gorgeous spectacles instead. Witness the "Joan of Arc" production which is featured this season by the Ringling show.

It is well that the circus people have come to a realization that such a change was expedient. While human nature is composed as it is, there will be people reckless enough to attempt any feat for a remuneration.

Such people take their life in their hands at every performance for a weekly wage. But when the slip comes, as it did to "Diavolo" and numerous others, and their crushed and bleeding forms are carried away before the eyes of thousands of watchers, it seems too bad that the law allows such needless risks. Performers of this nature are simply courting suicide every time they provide the thrill for a circus crowd.

Another evidence that this form of entertainment is no longer popular is the fact that aeroplanes, formerly the great magnet for big fairs, are no longer in demand. Last year the management of the Brockton fair eliminated them entirely and nobody seemed to miss them.

The feats of Lincoln Beachy, who used to hold crowds in awe by his spirals and dips, are no longer considered essential to an afternoon of pleasure. The fact that Beachy himself has quit the game and declares he would not enter a flying machine at the point of a gun, further points out that even the reckless performers themselves are coming to realize the foolishness of their calling.

Lesson of the Moro Campaign.

General Pershing's campaign against Moro outlaws, which seems to have been conducted with fine discretion, energy and success, will doubtless serve as the text of many an anti-imperialist preachment on the wickedness of our role in the Philippines and the urgent need of our immediate withdrawal and relinquishment of the islands to the self-government for which these Moros are obviously so well fitted. From that view of the case, however, we believe rational men generally will vigorously dissent. Anil and his followers were not simply in revolt against American rule. They were brigands on principle, hostile to all government which would restrain their marauding propensities.—New York Tribune.

For Suffrage!

Another suffragist descent is to be made upon Washington, but the strange feature of it is to be a horseback ride in the National capital by members of a men's league and the presentation by these men of a suffrage playlet. In fact, the masculine suffragists are as enthusiastic as the women in their advocacy of the cause. The sincerity of their conviction is evidenced by their marching in the suffrage parades, which must in the beginning, at least, have taken considerable moral courage to meet the ridicule always involved in a novel movement. But they came from the test with flying colors, and this new move is in the nature of a triumphal assertion of principle.—Baltimore American.

Why This Discrimination?

The Pennsylvania railroad suffered a wreck on Sunday when fifty-six passengers are horribly injured and one killed. The public remembers the slaughter when the Chicago flyers were wrecked and many prominent New Yorkers were killed. The Boston papers on Monday devoted but little space to the story and the government does not appear to get excited over these wrecks on the other railroads and you do not hear of any sensational stories. Why this discrimination? The thinking public will ask. The record of the New England Lines as to wrecks does not in any way reach the number of some of the other big railroads and yet a hostile press continues its abuse.

Newest and Biggest Marvel of the Seas. The Imperator, at End of Her Maiden Trip.

The Imperator, latest and biggest wonder of the sea, attracted much notice when she reached the port of New York safely with her 4,280 souls aboard. Answering her helm like a small yacht, she was berthed easily at the Hamburg-American pier, on the Hudson side of the Hudson river, New York. The upper left picture shows a view of part of her top deck. Only one of the three huge smokestacks can be seen in the picture. The stacks are sixty-five feet above the deck. Notice the numerous lifeboats. There are eighty-three in all, enough to carry all the passengers and crew in case of accident. The upper right picture shows how the great wall of steel looks head-on as the liner lies at anchor before she entered New York harbor. The lower view gives an entire sweep of the vessel. She is 910 feet long. Captain Hans Raeder, commander of the ship, who has four assistant captains, is also shown.

RAILROAD NOTES

Train dispatcher John F. Moeller, and O. W. Waterhouse of the Portland division, Boston & Maine are attending the annual convention of the Dispatchers Association at the West coast.

Engineer Thomas McCarthy has been assigned to a Boston run beginning today and Engineer O. J. Goldsmith takes the York branch freight.

The publicity department of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Maine has given out the following statement:

"The Boston and Maine railroad has been obliged to give up the operation of the Hampton railroad and the institution of through service between New York and Boston by that route, because of the inability to secure approval of its lease of the Hampton railroad by the railroad commission of Massachusetts.

"It is absolutely necessary that this lease should be approved before the Boston and Maine can legally operate the road, and this delay has rendered it practically impossible for the Boston & Maine to get the benefit of the through service it was expecting, for the present summer season.

"The Boston and Maine have announced cut excursion rates to the White mountains over July 1.

A work train on the Maine Central Railroad at Yarmouth Junction was destroyed by fire with a loss of about $1000. The train consisted of six cars, a dining car, sleeping car, flat car and box cars.

The cars were filled with the tools and clothing of the workmen, who had left the train here and gone to their homes in Brunswick for Sunday. All contents were burned. The cause of the fire is unknown.

FOUNDER OF WORLD PEACE MOVEMENT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Glan of Boston, founders of the World Peace Movement, and who gave a million dollars to carry on the work and who also gave to the people of Boston the Charles Bank Homes, model tenements which cost $600,000, were in Portsmouth Sunday visiting Dr. Edward S. Cowles.

Dr. Cowles is Mr. Glan's family physician and he is deeply interested in his work. As Miss Burger's guardian, Mr. Glan was delighted with her wonderful "peace" and pleasant surroundings.

Mr. Glan and his friends are planning to give Dr. Cowles a sanatorium for his work in nervous and mental disorders and Mr. Glan thought that Portsmouth with its beautiful surroundings would be an ideal place in which to build the hospital.

CURRENT OPINION

COPARTNERSHIP IN HOUSING.

The trend of population from cities to new areas on the outskirts is good for the individual and the nation, provided the suburbs are planned with a view to the development of a healthy people.

It is not enough to develop rows of houses along geometrically planned streets; such monotony of outlook is almost as depressing as life in a crowded city tenement. As the leisure hours of the people increase the organization of their pleasures will become as important as the utilization of their working day. And if spare time is to be spent near the home, the home must be placed in surroundings that give it a magnetic quality for the wage-earner.

In England we find that better health and mental vigor of the workers are a result of the garden suburb movement, notably in the case of painters, carpenters and others who have left London to work in the co-partnership factories of the garden city of Letchworth. None can question the advantages of a good natural environment over the squalid surroundings that are too often the lot of the working man.

Home ownership may often be a very doubtful advantage to the working man. It may hamper his mobility when opportunity for advancement offers elsewhere, and it is often risky as well as expensive for workmen to try to buy, on the usual individualistic plan, the houses in which they live.

Co-partnership in housing, which is now developing in various parts of England, is giving the sense of ownership to the tenants without the disadvantages of the individualistic system. The policy of admitting tenants to participate in the profits of an estate and enabling them to become investors in its capital seems to meet the situation better than any other plan yet devised. It gives them the educational advantage and stimulus to economy which arises from a sense of individual ownership, combined with safeguards to prevent such ownership expressing itself in an anti-social direction. On these estates facilities for open-air recreation, indoor social pleasures and the delights of gardening interests are enjoyed in common. The limitation of the number of houses to the acre and the provision of ample open spaces secure for town-dwellers new interest in life and give children a chance for healthy development.—Henry Vivian, member of the English Parliament, and of the English Housing Organization.

POEMS BY MR. CHESLEY

The following from the pen of Charles H. Chesley, former ticket agent at the Boston & Maine station, appears in "Truth" a Boston weekly publication:

Summer Song

Listen to a song of summer,
Bird songs ringing everywhere,
I will surely pen a hummer—
(Hanging that old mosquito! There!)

Here beneath this oak majestic
Is the place the muscs come,
Yonder farmyard scene domestic—
(There's a brown-tail moth, by gum!)

Oh, how soft the zephyrs rustle,
And the hidden warblers vie
With the leaping brooklet's bustle—
(Whack! There goes another fly!)

What's the use? 'Tis first a flying,
Then a creeping, crawling thing,
And the muscs all go shying—
Winter is the time to sing.

June

Comes June the month of roses,
With flowers everywhere,
When each new day discloses
New pleasures rich and rare.

The pools sing her praises,
Her bird songs bringing cheer,
Her drifts of snowy daisies—
The best month of the year.

And here I count it duty,
To add a song of mine,
Nor for Dame Nature's beauty,
Or days almost divine.

Comes June with breeze caressing,
Ah, me 'tis surely fate!
I call her greatest blessing
The sweet girl graduate.

On Monday afternoon at 2:30 occurred the death of Capt. Joseph H. Mitchell, aged 73 years, after a long and distressing illness.

Captain Mitchell followed the sea from boyhood, and was in command of many well known fishing vessels, among which may be mentioned the S. T. Collins, of Kittery; the Van of Portsmouth; the Sarah E. Babson and Matilda of Newburyport, and the Piscataqua of Portsmouth. He was also the pioneer of the fish weir business in this vicinity, and with his brother Hyland conducted it successfully for upwards of 20 years. Of Captain Mitchell it may truthfully be said that his word was as good as his bond. No more highly respected or better liked man lived in the town, and his death is a distinct loss to the entire community. He leaves a brother, Hyland of this place, Howard of Rockport, Mass., and three sisters, Mrs. Josephine Friesbe, and Mrs. Mary C. Wyman of this town, and Mrs. John Silabee of Ellak. THE GREENACRE SITUATION

Greenacre, Ellak, Me., June 22. To the Editor of Portsmouth Herald: It will doubtless be a matter of interest as well as surprise to some of your readers to learn that certain members of an oriental faith, known as Bahá'ism, are now secretly circulating among their own sect a printed appeal (copies of which have been secured by friends of Greenacre), in which they ask these Bahá'ists to assist in packing the annual meeting of the Greenacre Fellowship by signing "enclosed membership blanks" and by buying names and signatures for votes and "proxies" to enable them to wipe out the existing organization, by radical changes in the bylaws, and to vote into office a board of nine trustees, practically all of whom are of this sect or cult. The members of this board are to be ushered into office by the trick of attaching the names to a proposed amendment, as a rider which is to be carried with a rush by voting the "ought and paid for" proxies in "blocks of twenty."

This board of nine, (which is a mystical number according to this cult), is to have absolute power over everything pertaining to Greenacre affairs, and is to be self-perpetuating as well as automatic. It will usurp not only all power now vested in the Greenacre Fellowship, but also that which has heretofore been recognized as the undisputed right and prerogative of Miss Farmer.

The members of this secret cult are also proposing to assume the right to determine who may and who may not join the Fellowship by making it obligatory to have the approval of the board for all applications for membership. They would also determine arbitrarily who could participate in the conferences by controlling the platform and the programs.

It is doubtless well known to your readers that Miss Farmer established the Greenacre Conference and platform form in 1894. She presided over these conferences in such a spirit of hospitality, and with a breadth and scope of program and platform that Greenacre became known "the world over," as one of the first and most notable attempts yet made to reconcile all peoples and all faiths, and to bring about peace between all nations.

This cult of Bahá'ism settled down upon this place, so long and so well known as a place of peace and harmony, and by reason of narrowness, sectarianism and propaganda have created disharmony and dissension. During Miss Farmer's enforced absence they have laid their plans to capture and control the place. And now in spite of her strong protest, published in your columns, and in spite of the teachings of the founder of Bahá'ism and the leader of the movement who taught the doctrine of peace and unity among all peoples and faiths, they are plotting and planning to make Greenacre a sectarian center.

Therefore, some fifty or more members of the Fellowship and friends of Miss Farmer have called a meeting to be held at Greenacre, June 28, at 3:30 p. m., for the purpose of protesting against this high handed procedure, and they have called on all the people of this vicinity and the friends of Greenacre and of Miss Farmer to attend and take part in this meeting. This is also to be made an occasion for rejoicing and thanksgiving for Miss Farmer's recovery and return to active participation in Greenacre affairs.

There will be many speakers present, and the documentary evidence that this sect of Bahá'ism is trying to get control will be presented. Steps will be taken to resist this outrage against Miss Farmer and the platform and principles she so long maintained here, and Greenacre will be rededicated to the larger and more universal cause of truth in the service of humanity.

It would indeed be nothing less than a calamity to this community to allow this beautiful place, hallowed by a consecrated devotion to the broadest and most inclusive tolerance and good will towards all peoples and all honest efforts to promote the cause of religion, morals and a better life for all, to fall into the hands of a sect. It would also be unfortunate if the original plan, purpose and spirit of Greenacre should pass out, and be no more here in Ellak, on the banks of the noble Piscataqua and in the "Isles of Light" that make up so much of the charm of our pine grove, for lack of interest and enthusiasm on the part of the friends and neighbors of Miss Farmer, the founder, and for lack of men and to truth and brotherhood, and the noble ideals for the promotion of which women alike consecrated and devoted Greenacre was established and long maintained.

(Signed)
A Friend of Miss Farmer and Greenacre.

NEW CASTLE

June, the most beautiful month in the whole year, is rapidly drawing to a close and we cannot but deplore the passing of a whole year this beautiful month. Although the other summer months may be equally delightful but no wise similar. Clover fields pour forth their sheen and daisies sparkle with delight and lure us where caressing breezes blow. The efflorescence of the June rose is as irresistible today as it was two thousand years ago when it bloomed in the gardens of Jericho. All of the adjectives have been used over and over again from Chaucer to Tennyson and it does not make things any less true. If I wrote poetry at all I should want to write it now and should probably bombard the Herald editor with some effusion on beautiful June by every mail.

PRESIDENT WILSON READS HIS MESSAGE ON CURRENCY

Large Gathering--Bill is Somewhat of Interest.

Washington, June 23. Long before the Capitol doors were opened today hundreds of people filled up in a steady rain in the hope of getting in to hear President Wilson deliver his address to Congress on currency reform. Although the attendance had been rigidly limited to one card of admission for every member of either House and in addition for the President's family and the Cabinet, hundreds clamored for admission.

Hallings were erected near the entrance doors, guards were placed in charge of the entrances and a "ticket checker" box was installed, into which the tickets were thrown as fortunate applicants appeared.

The House and Senate had agreed by a resolution adopted last week, to take a recess just before 1 p. m. and to assemble in joint session in the House chamber promptly at 1, the Senate proceeding in a body to the House chamber, led by Vice President Marshall and Reed Baker.

Stands Firmly Back of Glass Bill.

President Wilson freely discussed the Glass currency bill with the Washington correspondents today at the regular semi-weekly conference, and made it plain that he intends to sign it as firmly behind it as he does behind the tariff bill. The general principles of the bill Mr. Wilson considered clearly defensible but he expects there will be amendments to details.

Mr. Wilson is inclined to believe that the bankers themselves eventually would be glad of direction by a Federal reserve board, over which they have no control, but which would properly safeguard their interests. The President made it clear that he had no fear of politics in that connection.

So far as the discounting features of the bill are concerned, the President regards the provision to compel Federal reserve banks of our region to discount assets of a reserve bank of another as imperative to prevent concentration of funds in the hands of a few.

"Must Act Now, at Any Sacrifice."

Although short of some of the novelty that attended his first appearance, when he upset presidential traditions of more than a century, today's visit of the President to Congress took on a deeper significance. On his first visit he delivered a message, long anticipated, urging the carrying out of the party's pledges for immediate revision of the tariff.

His address today was an appeal in every member of the House and Senate to lay aside personal considerations and sacrifice comfort and even health, if necessary, to secure at once a revision and reform of the Nation's banking system. Only in that way, he declared, could the country secure the benefits of the tariff revision soon to be completed.

"It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever," said President Wilson.

"Shall we hasten to change our tariff laws and then be laggards about making it possible and easy for the country to take advantage of the change? There can be only one answer to that question. We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves."

The vigor and st. of his short message held the rigid attention of his large audience through its delivery. As on his first appearance before Congress, the chamber was filled with Senators and Representatives, galleries were crowded with men and women from the official set, and corridors about the gallery doors were jammed with those unable to gain entrance.

The President gave no direct intimation to the Glass Currency bill, which is expected to form the basis for the Democratic revision of the banking laws, but in indirect language made it known that it had been prepared with his counsel and approval.

"The committees of Congress to which legislation of this character is referred have devoted careful and dispassionate study to the means of accomplishing those objects," he said in conclusion. "They have honored me by consulting me. They are ready to suggest action."

Senators March in Two by Two. Vice President Marshall appeared at the center door of the hall at the head of the Senators, marching two by two, just after 12:30 p. m. The Vice President took a seat beside Senator Clark, and the Senators took the seats in the front rows of the Democratic side.

Speaker Clark announced Representative Underwood, Fitzgerald and Mann as members of the committee to escort President Wilson to the chamber. The Vice President announced Senators Keen, Reed and Gallinger as the Senate members.

There were many absences among the House members, and whole rows of seats in the rear of the hall were empty. Mrs. Wilson and two of the President's daughters, with a party of friends, took seats in the Executive gallery, and a goodly sprinkling of diplomats occupied seats in the Diplomatic gallery nearby.

On the floor, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Wilson were the first to take place in the row of seats reserved for the Cabinet members. Sec. Houston and Sec. Lane joined them a little later. President Wilson motored to the Capitol through a steady downpour of rain, accompanied only by Sec. Taft and a secret service man. He reached the Capitol at 12:25 p. m. and went directly to Speaker Clark's office where he was met by the Joint Committee and escorted to the rostrum in the hall of the House.

Shouted, "The President." Just before 1 p. m. the House doorkeeper dashed into the chamber and shouted, "The President of the United States."

All in the galleries and on the floor arose as the President walked in front from the Speaker's lobby, and with a nod to the Speaker and the Vice President, mounted the steps to the clerk's desk.

"I present to the 63rd Congress the President of the United States," announced Speaker Clark.

Addressing first the two presiding officers, the President turned to the desk, and in a low, even voice that was never raised, but which penetrated clearly to every ear in the chamber, he began to read his address. Not a stir from the audience interrupted.

At 1:10 p. m. the President had finished reading his address and left the House chamber.

It had taken the President a little more than nine minutes to read his address, and its conclusion was greeted by a round of applause. As the President left the chamber he shook hands with Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall. The Speaker dismissed the joint session and then the Senators filed out, to return to their own chamber.

The House adjourned at 1:41 p. m. until 12 m. Tuesday.

The Administration Currency bill was not introduced in the House today as expected. Representative Glass explained that until some details are changed he cannot present it to the House. He expects to introduce the bill this week, however.

GETTYSBURG IS READY FOR THE OLD VETERANS

Gettysburg, June 23.—The hills of Gettysburg, where the armies of Meade and Lee pitched their tents 50 years ago, are flooded today with canvas, harbingers of the tented city which will soon arise on the battlefield.

The army of 100,000 War veterans from the North and South—10,000 of them—has come to hold a jubilee reunion on the 50th anniversary of the battle. The advance guard will be on the field within a week; the rank and file will follow not more than 48 hours later.

Every star of the 48 in the American flag is expected to have here its own quota of veterans. They will come as the guests of the National Government and of their respective states and territories, which jointly will spend more than $7,000,000 for their entertainment and comfort.

Pennsylvania has been planning for the celebration of the battle for more than four years. It has appropriated $115,000 as its share of the expense. Congress has appropriated $150,000 to defray the expense of the Government's participation, and named a commission to help carry out the plans. Every state and territory also accepted the general invitation to participate and nearly all of them appropriated money to transport veterans and commissions.

Camp of 7000 Tents. The big camp is pitched on that part of the battlefield which lies southwest of Gettysburg. On nearly 300 acres 7000 tents and more are going up under the supervision of the War Department. The camp lies partly on the scene of the first day's fighting and is not far from High Water Mark, where Pickett's famous charge shattered against the Union lines.

The camp has been laid out like a city. Each street and each tent has a number, so it will be easy for any veterans to look up a former comrade of foe. In the center of the camp will be the headquarters of the chief quartermaster. The veterans will be encamped by states.

Although each tent is designed to accommodate 12 men, it has been planned to assign only eight to each, so as to make them as comfortable as possible. Each veteran will have a separate cot, blankets and a mess kit, which will contain a plate, cup, knife and fork and spoon and will become his personal property when he breaks camp.

Food for All Veterans. With the preparation of meals the veterans will have nothing to do. These will be wholesome and substantial and will be served at the ends of company streets.

"Only veterans of the Civil War may be provided food, shelter and entertainment within the great camp around the battlefield," reads the announcement of the commission. Therefore, no woman or child or any man not a veteran will be given food, shelter or entertainment. No veteran should bring to Gettysburg any member of his family or other person for whom he will have to obtain food or quarters outside their camp unless all arrangements therefore have first been made for them before they come to Gettysburg.

No veteran will be permitted to bring a trunk into camp, his baggage being restricted to that which he can carry himself.

Four Days' Celebration.

The principal events of the celebration will be on July 1, 2, 3 and 4, but in order to avoid congestion of trains on the railroads and confusion at Gettysburg, the camp will be opened on Sunday evening, June 23, the first meal to be served at supper time. Twenty meals will be served to each veteran during the week if he is in camp that long, and the camp will come to an end after breakfast on Sunday, July 6.

Veterans have planned to visit historic places in and about the great area where the battle was fought and where skirmishes occurred and to hold reunions. The great celebration will be in full swing on the morning of July 1, exactly 50 years to the day from the time the battle opened to the west of the town.

Veterans' Day, July 1. The program for the four big days is briefly as follows:

July 1—Veterans' day. Exercises under the joint direction of the Pennsylvania Commission and the commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans.

July 2—Military day. Under the direction of the chief of staff of the United States Army.

July 3—Civic day. Under the direction of the Governor of Pennsylvania, presiding and participated in by the Governors of the states, if they so desire. Addresses and music.

July 4—National day. Patriotic exercises, orations, with fireworks to the evening.

The exercises will be held in a great tent, one of the largest in the United States, capable of accommodating about 15,000 persons. This tent is at the southern end of the camp, beside the Emmittsburg road, down which Lee's army went after the close of the three days' battle.

HOW ARE THEY GOING TO GET IT?

Under the new train arrangement which went into effect on the Boston & Maine Monday some of the trains will not handle baggage. This is especially the case on suburban trains, which are given up largely to commuters, and it will in many cases work disadvantage to the traveler, as the baggage, if there is any, will have to be forwarded by express or delayed until a train comes along which does handle matter for the baggage car. As an instance of how this might work, a passenger taking a Hugs branch train to connect at Lynn for one coming to Maine might encounter one of these baggageless trains and would find that baggage could not go along with him. He would have to make his Lynn connection and trust to his trunk following him to a Maine destination.

Baggage cars will not be discontinued but the orders are not to open their doors for the reception of baggage matter.—Lynn News.

With a few through trains making stops at these stations, it is a question how some of the stations will get any baggage at all under such an arrangement.

FIREMEN PLANNING FOR A BIG DAY

A meeting of the officers of the different fire companies with Chief Engineer Woods and Board and the Committee on fire department from the Council was held on Monday evening at the M. H. Goodrich house on Hanover street.

Plans were made for the parade and inspection of the fire companies and it will in all probability be held on Sept. 4th. The members are willing to get out and hustle for a big day. Councilman Duncan and Mr. Fred A. Gray were added to the Socializing committee.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for the sports and banquet in the afternoon, and everything points to a big letter day for the firemen and citizens. Another meeting will be held on Monday next, Chief Woods presiding and C. H. Kehoe was secretary.

POLICE COURT

There were three drunks before Judge Stines in police court on Monday afternoon. Two were first offenders who had the hard luck to strike Sunday for being drunk and got the usual $10 and cost. James Murray for the same offense put up a strong plea to the Judge for just another chance and he was given a suspended sentence of six months if found in town after midnight. James allowed that there was nothing to it, he had been beating it for seven years and he was going to reform.

Henry Lytle who was charged with threatening Morris ort pleaded not guilty, and the case was heard. Judge Stines reserved his decision.

OBSEQUIES.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Penny. The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Penny were held at her late home this Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Lytle L. Gailther pastor of the Methodist church officiating. The body will be sent to Newfound-land this evening for interment under the direction of O. W. Ham.

CAN SAVE VESSEL.

Owners Believe Vessel Can Be Made as Good as New.

Charles E. Bicknell returned Saturday from Portsmouth N. H., where he went to look after the schooner Chase owned by him, which was recently towed into that port after being in collision with a barge, as reported at the time. The vessel had been left grounded off a beach near the navy yard with a big hole in her bow where she struck the barge, but her hull otherwise is unimpaired. On examination Mr. Bicknell concluded that she can be repaired without too much expense, if only he can get her home, and made as good as new. To do this it will be necessary to move her fifty feet upon the beach, where the entire hull can be reached and the hole in her bow closed by temporary repairs.—Portland Press.

EDUCATIONAL REPORT TO BE GOOD READING

Washington, June 23.—In the belief that the average Government report is too dry and uninteresting to command much attention, Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, has edited and issued his annual report along wholly different lines. It is intended to appeal to the reader interested even casually in the science of education, while at the same time it seeks to set forth fully the work and the aims of the Bureau of Education.

"Unlike some Government documents," says a statement issued by the bureau today, "this report has been edited on the idea that the information in it is to be read by the general public, or by that very large part of the general public which is interested in education. Special efforts have been made to have the material concise and readable, as well as accurate."

The report covers a wide range and sketches the advancement of educational methods during the past year. A second volume, devoted entirely to statistics, will follow in the immediate future.

NEW ENGLAND'S FUTURE

By George Brewster Gallup

There is no need for New England to abase herself in the ashes of penitence, and grovel in an ecstasy of self-pity and pitiful partisan recrimination. She is at the beginning of a great future rather than at the end of a period of blasted opportunity.

Her hills ring with the voices of unexplored waters; her valleys yearn for the coming of scientific tillers of the soil; her rivers and harbors await the genius of engineers competent to perfect them for the great commerce of continents calling for preparation for their chambered demands upon the skill of their industrial armies.

What New England will do is written in the brains and wills of young men, idealistic descendants of the powerful pioneers, whose ideals live in their indelible master strokes upon the virgin land they found here—the roads they built, the forests felled; the bridges thrown across the streams; and in the mute monuments and shrines which still give prayerful command to a larger faith.

Let the young men of New England, too long denied great opportunity, even the boys who in this month of June will issue forth from a thousand institutions of learning—high schools, grammar schools, colleges and universities—let them see the promised land of opportunity here—their own home land for them to develop and to enter in upon its riches—and in another decade shall a great transformation be wrought in the land of the Pilgrims.

New England, needs only the vision, the plan, the ground work of her destiny to be revealed to venge youth, and she will emerge the richest, the most efficient, the most progressive, and helpful section in this country.

First, there must be a gospel of City Planning, preached in all her borders, in the end that all the inefficient, incomplete, archaic, and obsolete mechanisms would not delay and hamper progress, shall be transformed by competent engineers into municipal mechanisms of the greatest perfection, not only for the sake of doing business successfully, but for the larger purpose of fostering and conserving the highest type of citizenship.

To begin to do this now will cost large sums of money, but not to do this necessary work of reconstruction today will entail a much heavier cost tomorrow.

For this work, must and shall be done, otherwise the very life and industrial supremacy of New England will steadily decline under the pressure of despondency and the competition of the splendidly optimistic and creative western and southern sections of this country.

Let us consider what must be done to initiate these works of practical construction.

First, in place of amateur and inexperienced management of municipal engineering and financing, must be substituted a system of planning by competent engineers and municipal architects and efficient experts, which shall take a comprehensive look ahead so that we shall not build for the day, or the life of an administration, but for half a century of uninterrupted opportunity and progress.

There is hardly a city or manufacturing center in this section that does not require the immediate investment of large sums for the perfecting of the physical factors which make the efficiency in the conduct of business and the reductions of costs of living.

This is the great advantage of New England; that there is now opportunity to complete and rearrange, in the light of modern scientific city building in Europe and other countries, the admirable and splendidly adaptive foundations of generations of able men who constructed up to the best light of their day.

But the work now to be done, must be planned by the foremost experts, for the securities we shall need to finance this work must be of the high est character in order to secure the attention of careful investors not only at home but in the other sections of the country.

The municipal bond we shall offer to secure the funds to improve our New England cities will be of the most attractive character, as safe as government bonds and paying a good rate of interest.

By offering them in popular denominations of $100 and fractional parts thereof, we shall open up a new line of investment securities to thousands, who have but small sums to place, and then only in ways that are absolutely safe.

If you search today through the strong boxes of our financial institutions, you will find scores of millions of dollars worth of municipal bonds of western cities and the bonds of western railroads. They form a substantial part of the assets of estates and individuals in this section of great per capita wealth.

We should realize that our thrift and economic resources have been utilized so generously to build up other cities and industrial enterprises in other sections and now that other cities by reason of their superior perfection and commercial vigor are beginning to attract from us the industrial enterprises on which our success depends, it is time to see if we cannot find equally good use for our money at home in similar ways. It is time that we began to draw back the investment money of the rich and prosperous West for perfecting our own centers of industry.

Instead of raising sums of money to advertise the advantages of our cities while in an incomplete and imperfect condition for the purpose of attracting new enterprises, we shall advertise our municipal bonds for the making of improvements, and in this way advertise the prospects and future perfection of our cities. This will be a sound economic policy.

The other method we will leave to be continued as it has been begun in the less cautious and conservative sections.

But we shall offer to tens of thousands of New England, in all parts of the world, opportunity to buy the gilt edge securities issued to build our cities to the highest standards of engineering science for modern industrial requirements. By thus advertising the securities of our cities, we shall draw not only money but the enlightened interest of thousands to our growing opportunities.

New York City, the great metropolis, has in the past ten years sold in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars worth of its safe securities.

New England for the benefit of its cities and manufacturing towns, shall sell in the next ten years a thousand million dollars worth of municipal bonds for perfecting their physical factors up to the highest standards of efficiency we shall find that if this is done under the direction of competent engineers that assessable values will rise faster than is necessary to pay the interest of these bonds.

There will be no need to increase taxes to meet the interest requirements. Permanent values will be increased four-fold.

But these bonds must be issued in popular denominations and sold over the counter so that all who wish to do so may participate, even our own citizens. They pay the taxes out of which interest is paid on these bond issues. Why should they not be permitted to buy the bonds and receive the excellent rates of interest instead of always paying it all to others? When the citizens of our municipalities own some of the securities they issue, they will take more care of their own properties, and become better citizens.

Unfortunately many of our New England cities are bound by their charters not to pay more than a percent of their bond issues. They cannot therefore sell their securities in competition with those of more energetic, ambitious and capable municipalities. New York City, the other day, sold $45,000,000 of bonds paying 4-1/2 per cent.

New England cities must offer a rate of interest on these bonds which will make them equally attractive with the bonds of cities with which they are in competition for industrial supremacy. As it is today we need an average of 3.9 per cent from our savings banks which invest a part of the money in western bonds and refuse to buy the bonds of our own cities because the interest rates are not sufficiently attractive.

Our savings banks ought not to be turned unconsciously or by accident into the savings banks for harm to their business by the popular sale of municipal bonds of New England cities which would increase building operations, stimulate manufacturing, and commerce that tens of thousands of new depositors would be made who would prefer as over the savings bank to any other kind of financial repository and the pass book to any other kind of token of investment.

Let us advertise our cities, their conveniences, their favorable location, their advantages, their shining future by advertising their bonds, the proceeds of which under competent direction are to be used for making the cities more efficient. Let us change our charters if necessary, in order that we may offer a rate of interest on our bonds, equal to the rate paid by New York or Chicago, or St. Paul or Des Moines, or Seattle or San Francisco.

Let us build solidly and bravely for the future. Let us prepare for the trade of the Orient which shall open to us, with the opening of the Panama Canal; for the trade of the west coast of South America and Central America; of all the coasts of the Caribbean and all the seaboard watered by the Amazon and the River del La Platte.

With this exercise of wisdom and foresight, we shall attract the favorable attention of investors all over the world. The attraction of our cities will soon begin to draw new industries, and individuals of power and enterprise will follow these investments, the tide of pioneers turn back upon New England.

Following the investments in our municipal bonds will flow money for the development of our water powers, our agriculture, our railroads. Our virile, ambitious and creative young men will remain in the land of their birth and the capable of other lands will come here because of the great widening of the fields of opportunity.

Against this sound, economic, and constructive programme no word of protest can properly be raised, no voice of any true conservative, whether banker of timid individual or former staid regime; for the true conservative must work to conserve the welfare of his section by wise, practical, courageous and far-sighted measures.

The future of New England depends upon a reconstruction which shall make our cities the most efficient industrial centers in the world.

To do this will require then investment of adequate millions of dollars. To secure these necessary sums we shall sell our municipal bonds to individuals, offering them in popular denominations, advertising them at the same time we are advertising the astonishing opportunities of our cities. And for every dollar we secure and invest in carrying out the plans of our engineers and expert city builders, we shall add permanent values to many times the amounts invested.

The future of New England in the realization of this practical construction programme will then begin to equal in potential possibilities the future of Germany, of France and of the entire group of the Middle, Western or Southern states.

We have the engineers, the architects, the scientists, the technical institutions of learning, the per capita wealth necessary to enable us to accomplish the work we have to do. We have best of all one million young men on whose foreheads is written the promise of great achievement if given hope and great opportunity. Shall we hesitate about investing the equivalent of $1000 for each of these in order to afford them the proper environments in their own home land to make the most of their futures?

We certainly shall not hesitate long, when we are assured that the money we are permitted to invest will go into real improvements such as the most progressive cities today are making. There is no need to call the roll of these cities—the cities which the improving their harbors, widening and improving main thoroughfares, developing efficient terminals, opening bright centers by far-sighted constructive measures approved by the best engineers. We shall quickly learn to avoid purely speculative work, conceived in the behalf of selfish interests.

City planning commissions in which we can place implicit confidence will plan the way for the safe investment of the many millions we need to place our cities in the front rank for the work of a tremendous future.

A FEW DON'T'S FOR HOT WEATHER

Washington, June 23.—The last word in hot weather "don'ts" was issued in brief form today by Dr. Carl Abbe, chief of the United States Bureau of Chemistry. Dr. Abbe, it develops, would abolish the thermometer because of its distracting influence on the minds of perspiring men and women. Here are his "don'ts":

"Don't eat to excess."
"Don't wear too many clothes."
"Don't drink ice cold beverages."
"Don't look at the thermometer and keep thinking how hot it is."
"Cool drinks are one of Dr. Abbe's abominations for he says they not only disorder the stomach but they also interfere with digestion. The secret of keeping cool in the dog days, according to Dr. Abbe, lies largely in temperate eating, taking just enough sustenance to keep off the pangs of hunger."
"But," says the doctor, "above all things keep your eyes from the thermometer."

PRESIDENT POINCARÉ LEAVES FOR LONDON

Paris, June 23.—President Raymond Poincaré left the French capital today on his way to London, where he expects to pay his first official visit since his election. He will pass four days in London, where elaborate arrangements have been made for his reception by King George, the Government and municipality.

In fact, everything possible has been done to make the meeting of the two members of the entente cordiale as formal, impressive and significant as possible.

Premier Louis Barthou and nearly all the members of the French Cabinet were at the station to bid the President farewell, while three Cabinet ministers accompanied him to Cherbourg. At that port President Poincaré, accompanied by Stephen Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will embark on the French battleship Courbet and proceed to Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bartlett (two well known vaudeville artists) are spending the summer at York Beach.

Exchange of Bicycles Starts Something on Congress Street.

Well, a missing bicycle started something on Congress street and when the two men concerned in it met they cannot help but smile.

One of the parties left his bike in front of Leroy's cigar store while he went for a shave. When he came out his bike was not there but another one nearly the same stood against the building. He hunted for some time and finally found it standing in front of Heland's barber shop on Vaughan street. He entered the barber's parlor and inquired of Heland if he knew who left the bike outside. Heland replied that the man in the chair owned it. "I guess not," said the owner.

"Oh, you can't pull off anything like that around here," said the man with his face full of foam. "That's my wheel."

"Not on your life, I am going to get a police officer and we will see who owns it," he started out the door. "Hold on a minute," said the man half shaved, don't you know me? The other fellow then took a shave at the man in the chair and recognized him as one of his close friends. To make the story short, they had simply changed bikes. The cop on the beat was hustled up and ordered to call on the search.

Don't Want the Hike

Some consideration is being given to an important amendment of the regulations prescribing physical tests of the officers of the navy and marine corps. There are those of the service who believe that the monthly demonstration in the form of a ten mile walk within a stipulated period is little or of no avail. It is of course useful and beneficial individually, as is any other form of exercise judiciously used, whether voluntary or involuntary. It is not proposed to encourage officers to spare themselves in this particular. On the contrary if there is any change in the present system, the navy department will issue an advisory circular which is intended to keep officers up to the mark in the way of such exercises as will maintain health. It is proposed however to have physical examinations of all officers at least once a year, the results of which will determine whether an officer is physically fit to perform his duties. Failure of such a demonstration will be regarded as sufficient justification for examination with a view to retirement. By this means officers will realize that it is of benefit to them to practice such habits of exercise as will keep them in prime condition for the annual examination. The conservative view of the navy officers is that this arrangement will be productive of all the benefits which are now derived from the present monthly ten mile pedestrianism—Army and Navy Register.
